KEEPING YOU IN TOUCH WITH NEWS & OPPORTUNITIES IN WA FAMILY LAW

JUNE 2022

Greetings from the Chairs

by Mark O'Hare & Robyn King

Hello from WAFLPN!

After two years in the planning and seventeen very intense weeks of preparation, the Family Law Pathways Network welcomed delegates across WA from Albany up to Broome, South Australia, and Griffith NSW via livestream and in person at Burswood on Swan for our annual conference at the end of May.

The conference aimed to foster strong links with locally based providers who operate as part of, or alongside, the family law system, to enhance collaboration and improve overall assistance to separated and separating families, with the focus on First Nations and Torres Strait Islander people and their children.

This year's theme of Truth, Justice, Listening and Healing was emceed over two days by Ernie Dingo and opened by Corina Martin, CEO of AFLS WA. The journey moved through truth-telling with delegates engaging in meaningful discussions and informative Q&A sessions.

Delegates were invited to enjoy a cultural learning experience by participating in smoking ceremonies, and a river walk, connecting them to land and Derbarl Yerrigan. Other cultural activities included a lesson in Noongar language, all day painting with artist in residence Acacia Collard and food tastings of damper, quandong jam and kangaroo pies.

You can view the photographs of the event and the Live Stream video recording of the two day event will be available in the free members area on the website.

Thank you to the WA Family Law Pathways Network Development Office Annette, the Aboriginal reference group and the steering committee for all their hard work in providing an important resource and experience for our community.

This month we would like to extend our best wishes to Sharon Collier as the North West representative. Sharon has been a dedicated regional member of the Network and we would like to thank her for all of her commitment and support over the years.

We wish Sharon all the best in her next venture.

An additional note from Robyn; I will be moving in my working role with Centrecare at the end of June and stepping down as co-chair of the Steering Committee. I would like to thank all who made my time in the position memorable and hope to attend future network events.

Welcome Nigel Calver, to the Pathways Steering Committee

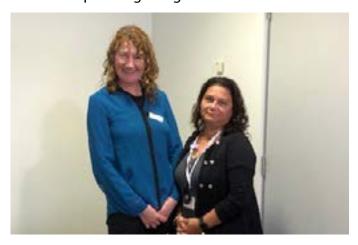

With qualifications in commerce, psychology, and ethics, Nigel has a diverse background in business, training, adventure therapy and not for profit services.

Nigel has been an Executive Manager for Centrecare's community services responsible for managing a variety of services including refugee and asylum seeker programs, counselling and EAP services, community housing programs and family law services, for the past 15 years.

Our Aboriginal flag colours, sand from the Greenough and Chapman rivers and the beach where the Chapman meets the ocean ,a place significant to my Naaguja people ,some of the family including my dads' siblings were born along the Chapman river , and where I walk every morning and pay respects to my elders and ancestors with the throwing of sand intro the river to Bimara , our legendary snake that created our rivers and waterways .

Some shells from the Indian ocean.

NAIDOC WEEK 3-10 July 2022

3-10 JULY 2022

National NAIDOC Week celebrations are held across Australia in the first week of July each year to celebrate and recognise the history, culture and achievements of Aboriginal and Torrest Strait Islander peoples.

NAIDOC Week is an opportunity for all Australians to learn about First Nations cultures and histories and participate in celebrations of the oldest, continuous living cultures on earth.

You can support and get to know your local Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander communities through activities and events held across the country.

Intergenerational transmission of trauma: unpacking the effects of parental adverse childhood experiences (ACEs)

Existing research documented the connection between individuals' childhood trauma exposure and adverse health and behavioural health outcomes. However, less attention has been paid to understanding trauma in an intergenerational context.

Findings showed that only parental chlidhood maltreatment ACEs, but not family dysfunction ACEs were significantly associated with child behavioural problems was equally significant between fathers and mothers, though mothers' childhood maltreatment ACEs exerted a more potent effect on child functioning.

Findings highlighted the need for child behavioural health services to incorporate the screening of parental ACEs in treatment programmes to break the cycle of intergenerational trauma.

Lessons for a COVID-19era: Barriers and facilitators to Court ordered online parenting programs for divorcing and separating parents.

Family courts are increasingly interested in online parenting programs for divorcing and separating parents, particularly during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Sixty one parents were interviewed in the midst of family law cases regarding their perspectives. and while online parent programmes were viewed positively, there were reported barriers to participation such as technology problems.

This article offers recommendations to support courts as they decide whether to continue ordering online parenting programs following the pandemic.

WHAT'S NEW

Legal Aid's Blurred Borders

with Faye Sellers

Blurred Borders is a two-way communication tool originally developed to explain complex legal concepts to our First Nations Clients based between the Kimberley and Northern Territory.

The heart of each pack is a set of story cards with a clear image and title and a plain English description on the back. Each kit also has various plain English fact sheets on each topic which can be printed and provided to clients and stakeholders.

These kits have been developed with extensive community consultation.

We currently have four kits available, fines-WDP, Bail and criminal process, family violence (including conferencing) and tenancy.

We are expecting a re-print of the child protectiondiverse parents group shortly, however, the kit is available on the website for free download.

Each kit can be accessed on the website.

Hard copy kits can be ordered though this website and all materials are available to be printed though the website. Log-on access or queries can be directed via email.
