The WA Common Risk Assessment and Risk Management Framework is:

"A standardised response to identifying, assessing, and responding to family and domestic violence"

It is intended to provide a common practice framework for screening, risk assessment, risk management and risk monitoring for all service providers in WA (mainstream, statutory and specialist)

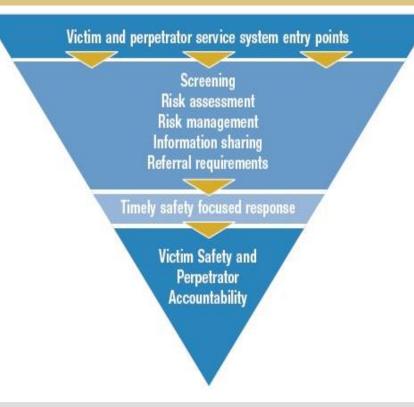

5 key components of the CRARMF

CRARMF

Framework supports:

- 1.Eliminating service gaps
- 2.Client and safety focused responses
- 3.Inter-agency collaboration and integrated responses to high risk cases
- 4.Establishment of common language and common understandings to improve communication

Victim and perpetrator journey through an integrated service system

Common Risk Assessment Tool

- Evidence based risk factors
- Provides guidance to assess high risk
- Provides a common language and standard across agencies
- Common screening tool available for service providers not responsible for responding to FDV.

Practice Tool 2 Common risk assessment tool

Family and Domestic Violence Risk Assessment Tool

Service providers that have a role in responding to family and domestic violence are required to conduct a risk assessment considering the adult victim's assessment of the risk, evidenced based key risk factors and the service provider's professional judgement'.

1 This risk assessment tool is based on comprehensive research including multiple examinations of the predictive accuracy of risk factors, victim perception and professional judgement in assessing risk of repeat assault or potential lethality in family and domestic violence cases (Campbell 2003; 2004; 2005). See Fact sheet 5 Key risk factors for further information and references.

Family & Domestic Violence Response Teams (FDVRTs)

Aim to improve safety for victims and children by providing timely responses following a call out to a family violence incident by WA Police

- Safety of victim is prioritised
- Focus on perpetrator accountability
- Managing perpetrator risk
- Collaboration with other services
- Joint risk assessment

- Targeting client needs
- Supported and streamlined referral pathways
- Co-ordinated and/or joint responses
- MACM's Multi-Agency Case Management

Multi-agency case management (MACM)

High Risk Cases should be responded to with a MACM

Share risk relevant information to support comprehensive risk assessment

Support multi-agency safety planning to:

- improve victim safety; and
- manage risks posed by the perpetrator.

Children and Community Services Act

Family and domestic violence

- The definition of 'relevant information' has been broadened to also enable the exchange of information relevant to the safety of a person who has been subjected or exposed to one or more 'acts of family and domestic violence' as defined in the Restraining Orders Act 1997. This applies to both:
 - the exchange of information with the Department (under s.23); and
 - relevant information exchanged between prescribed authorities, or between a prescribed authority and a nongovernment provider or non-government school under new section 28B of the Act.

The Legislation – Section 28 of the Children and Community Services Act 2004

- 28. When a child is in need of protection(1) In this section —
- emotional abuse includes
 - (a) psychological abuse; and
 - (b) being exposed to an act of family and domestic violence;

Family and domestic violence andImage: Image: I

Exposing a child to an act of family and domestic violence is a form of emotional abuse. The person responsible for the abuse is the perpetrator of the abuse.

The Department is responsible for identifying and responding to cases where a child has suffered significant harm or is likely to suffer significant harm as a result of exposure to family and domestic violence.

Emotional harm or likelihood of harm may be caused by a single act of family and domestic violence or the cumulative impact of exposure over a period of time.

Family and domestic violence

Duty interaction and intake

In all cases where a concern for a child is identified, child protection workers must assume that FDV is a factor in the case, and seek information at the earliest opportunity to confirm or refute this assumption.

Pathways to harm

and control the child and adult victim

Perpetrator disrupting family functioning

Financial

- victim unable to (or prevented from) working
- perpetrator restricts access to money and/or takes money to use for himself
- victim unable to leave relationship due to financial dependence on perpetrator

Housing

- frequent moves loss of social connections, child forced to change school
- · leaving the house to escape violence
- high risk of homelessness

Loss of contact with family or community

- less social support
- less visibility in the community
- · disconnection from culture/heritage

C David Mandel, Safe and Together

Perpetrator undermining partner's parenting

- Constant criticising or undermining
- children learn to disrespect/ignore victim
- Demanding focus and attention
- energy goes into meeting perpetrator's needs

Limited active participation in child care

Interference with a day to day routine and basic care

- appointments missed
- missed meals (e.g. lunches for school)
- children absent or frequently late for school
- trauma or physical injury suffered by the adult victim as a result of the violence can affect their capacity to care for the child

Harm to the child

Emotional harm

- · confusion, fear and sadness
- anxiety/depression
- self-harm/suicidal behaviour
- anger/aggression
- poor coping skills
- externalising/misbehaviour
- lack of social skills loss of family/friend support
- loss of family/mend support poor performance at school
- regressed behaviour
- failure to reach developmental milestones

Physical injury

Neglect

 Safe and Together model - David Mandel offers a useful way to conceptualise and capture the variety of ways that perpetrators of FDV can directly and indirectly harm children as a result of their abusive behaviour.

Pathways to harm

Violent and abusive tactics to coerce and control the child and adult victim

- Perpetrator disrupting family functioning
 - Financial
 - Housing
 - Loss of contact with family or community
- Perpetrator undermining partner's parenting

How have we increased harm?

- Compliance with the cultural expectations and responsibilities of gender.
 - Women
 - Responsible for the health and wellbeing of the family

- Men
 - Responsible for discipline, providing and protecting

How have we increased harm?

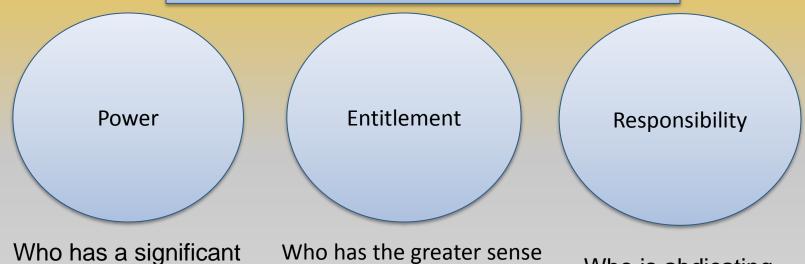

- What has been our default position?
 - Pressured mothers to be 'protective'
 - No perpetrator accountability
 - A focus on the status of the relationship
 - Separation increases risk

 Putting pressure to end the relationship

- He leaves
- Child and Mum leaves (to refuge)
- Child is removed
- Is this a Judgement or Assessment?
 - Who is the Primary Aggressor?

Determining the primary aggressor

Is all violence abuse?

Who has a significant advantage over the other?

Who has the greater sense of entitlement?

- Shoulds
- Privileged beliefs

Who is abdicating responsibility of the wellbeing of the other?

Within the context of a pattern systemic power and control Behaviours become controlling when they instil fear

How are we increasing safety?

Inter-agency collaboration

- Promoting an integrated response with external agencies (CRARMF)
- Partnering with the adult victim
 - Honouring acts of resistance to abuse
 - Adult victim's assessment of risk to safety
 - Using personal safety plans (including child)
- Keeping adult victim and child safe and together
 - Avoiding demonising the perpetrator
 - Talk about the perpetrator as if he has a future with the family
 - Keep the focus on the perpetrator's behaviours
- A commitment to perpetrator accountability
 - Naming perpetrator's abusive behaviours using accountable language
 - Placing full responsibility on the perpetrator
 - Engaging the perpetrator and inviting behaviour change

Honouring acts of resistance to abuse

Partnering with adult victims – honouring resistance and personal safety plans

Resistance to Abuse Checklist

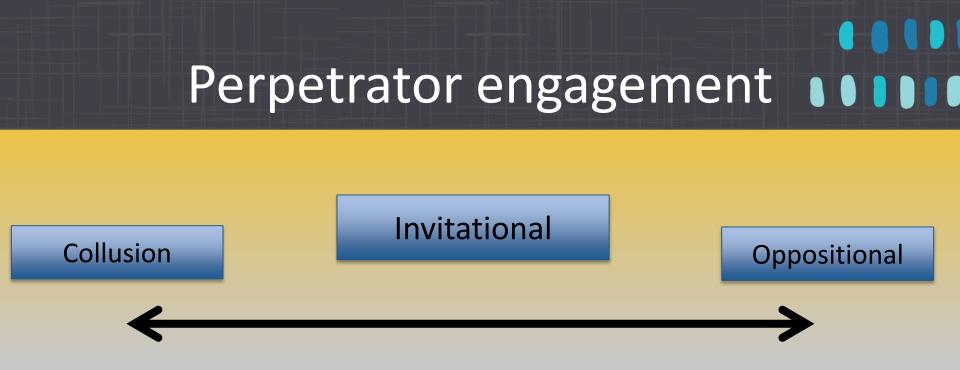

Honouring acts of resistance to abuse

Key benefits

- Better client engagement
- Development of identity
 - skills/strengths/decision making
 - More connected to preferred ways of being treated
 - Symptom of health and health-inducing (mental wellness)

Clearer picture of the violence

- Perpetrators counter-actions to resistance
 - Addresses justifications, 'out of control' notions, minimising (alcohol)
 - 'To conceal resistance is to conceal violence' (Wade 1997)
- Contests accounts of pathology and passivity (victim blaming)

- Avoid collusion
- Avoid an oppositional approach
- Use an Invitational approach

Invitational practice is concerned with the discovery, naming and actualisation of the man's own ethics and preferences and legitimisation of protest or resistance to injustice.

My Hopes and Dreams Checklist

Alan Jenkins 2009 Becoming Ethical

Invitational approach

Ethics of program

Ethics of perpetrator

What is in common?

Acknowledging protests

How might you respond to these protests?

- Oppositional responses
- Invitational responses

"I shouldn't be here, she's the problem" "You cant take my kids, they are my kids" "You welfare mob are all the same, screwing up people's lives" "Welfare took me away from my parents"

Skills Simulation

- Skills simulation- interview
